NINE BURNED TO DEATH.

LOSS OF LIFE AT A FIRE IN A NEW YORK TENEMENT HOUSE.

Six of the Dead Persons Were Members of the Same Family—Thrilling Incidents of the Conflagration—Arrest of the Alleged Incendiaries—Fifty Men Nearly Burned with Them—Loss from Another Burning Building in Anthony.

New York, Aug. 19.—[Special.]—Five persons were burned to death in a fire in a tenement house in this city this morning. The fire started in a "cockloft" over the basement occupied by John Mayher, and before it was discovered had spread to the floor above. Mayher, his wife and four children, ranging in age from 2 to 12 years, were asleep in the room where the fire started. Mayher was awakened by the smoke and attempted to escape with his family, but was driven back by the flames. He then opened the window and dropped his children to the ground, and then jumped himself. His wife, who was in the last stages of consumption, was burned to death. Mayher was badly burned about the face and hands in jumping from the window. Mrs. Mayher's mother, Mrs. Catherine Hoffman, 70 years old, was also burned to death. Mayher's brother-in-law, Frank Hoffman, and his wife and child, were also badly burned. They were all removed to the New York Hospital.

The building was one story high, and was divided from cellar to roof and to rooms one and two stories high, by cellars and lofts. The fire started in a "cockloft" over the basement occupied by Mayher, and the flames had the room occupied jointly by Mayher and Hoffman in a blaze before the occupants of the room were aroused. Mayher, his wife and four children, ranging in age from 2 to 12 years, were asleep in the room where the fire started. Mayher was awakened by the smoke and attempted to escape with his family, but was driven back by the flames. He then opened the window and dropped his children to the ground, and then jumped himself. PUBLISHED JUNE 10, 1847.

TUESDAY, AUGUST 28, 1900.

Governor Stone and the Tammanite bolt have come out for Chicago as the site of the world's exposition of 1903. It will be a great thing for the Tammanites made to have their share of the passenger and freight traffic to the world's exposition any of the settlement in 1903.

Whether the world's exposition in Chicago in 1903 be a great thing for the prosperity of Colorado and Colorado's representation in New England, for example, time to give these points a great boost? We suggest Denver to be fighting hard for Chicago as the site of the world's fair in 1903, for Denver has enormous interests in Chicago and Chicago interests, but few comparatively in New York.

The money market in this city was steady with no new features, but was moving closer to the mark. New York was moving unchanged from exactly. Local exchanges were rather dull. Bidder in Wall street were weaker, mostly in the trade, while the grangers were moderately firm. The Chicago produce markets were firm, and grain was in better tendency for cash wheat. Provisions were heavy on account of a continued large supply of hogs, as compared with Saturday's (both said and sold). Tin was easier, sold 31 cents lower, while 31 were taken for this month, both said 31 cents lower, barley weak, rye and flaxseed steady.

The number of grain in Chicago elevators last Saturday evening were 2,001,170 bushels of wheat, 2,000,170 bushels of corn, 2,000,000 bushels of oats, 97,017 bushels of rye, and 31,170 bushels of barley. Total, 7,000,000 bushels of all kinds of grain, against 7,000,000 bushels a year ago. For the week ended with Saturday of the Chicago board of trade shows the visible supply of grain in the United States and Canada as 31,000,000 bushels of wheat, 2,000,000 bushels of corn, 2,000,000 bushels of oats, 000,000 bushels of rye, and 000,000 bushels of barley. These figures are larger than the corresponding week a week ago by 000,000 in wheat and 1,000,000 in corn. The visible supply of wheat for the corresponding week a year ago increased 1,000,000 bushels.

New York is to be a bonanza of [illegible] this year according to [illegible] the city's estimate of 2,000 square miles [illegible] and any "friends America." What [illegible] the world says to unanimous [illegible] "Chicago is being [illegible] "agents of New York have [illegible] in Chicago to [illegible] "Chicago is being [illegible] "New York's world's fair." So they do. They have an eye to the main chance, and they expect to share in it to a considerable extent. But while New York and Chicago are [illegible] enough to [illegible] the Chicago World's Exposition [illegible] they are not sure that [illegible] to Chicago are all New Yorkers [illegible] as long as both [illegible] to [illegible] Chicago enterprise. When New York gets any money contributed from this city [illegible] it will be time for it to talk of Chicago [illegible] this event this city will [illegible] and the prospect of having the [illegible] exposition the best 100 years on the list. If New York cannot in four months raise $10,000 for a memorial arch such money grows and is safe it is time for the exposition fund.

In 1900 the corn belt raised 40 to the [illegible] and this city will have an abundant supply of pure water, more than enough for its own population and the hundreds of thousands of immigrants who will come to witness the games. New York, however, in spite of the new aqueduct, will be no more able to supply its own citizens than it now is. The presence of any number of strangers would alone as a supply already far too small. It appears from the report to Comptroller [illegible] of New York court of public [illegible] of the million guests who live in tenements in that city the majority do not use the [illegible] water because they cannot get it and depend on the nearest hydrant or the [illegible] with their supply of drinkables. It appears from the report of these are in a foul condition, and if yet more cholera [illegible] which is thirty days too late it is imaginable. This exhibits the light which in New York and Europe [illegible] danger of a destructive epidemic in bringing all the [illegible] the people of that city. A place which is unable to furnish decent drinking water to half of its city residents is not the one which should be chosen as the home during the last summer months of hundreds of thousands of strangers who are accustomed to use pure water in abundance.

In spite of all the complaints, some justified and some not, which have been made about the north side cable line it seems to admitted that it has in a great measure done away with the burden of the "bridge nuisance" so far as residents of the north side are concerned. The [illegible] roundabout all the south and west goes through the La Salle street tunnel, and even bridges have consequently not been [illegible], while the smaller number of horse cars which it serves the tunnel and navigate it get along. It is stated that another two years 1,000 extra cars can pass through the tunnel each way, and that at a rough estimate they carried 30,000 persons who did not have even to pay an [illegible] to [illegible] waiting for a bridge to [illegible]. The number of individuals who have had to have cars to [illegible] the [illegible] of the [illegible] to [illegible] [illegible] Chicago [illegible] Chicago [illegible] [illegible] Chicago [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]
